To the editor:

The Steuben County Economic Development Corp. recently adopted a strategic plan. An important component of that plan is the continued development of the iMAN project to bring high speed connectivity to all parts of Steuben County. This will be a crucial part of bringing new businesses to Steuben County as well as retaining and expanding existing businesses.

The Steuben County Commissioners are to be commended for their decision to invest Major Moves dollars into this project. These dollars came to Steuben County with the stated purpose of investing in infrastructure and economic development. This project fits that purpose very well. I encourage the County Council to move ahead with this important investment in our County's future.
